Join us at Goodenough College, London for our remarkable celebration of International Women's Day - looking at Women's In-Visibility.

The theme for this year's celebration ties in with Goodenough College's 'Maive Society', named after Maive Goodenough, Frederick Goodenough's wife whose idea it was to start the college. This College society celebrates 'unrecognised or invisible women throughout history'. The theme is supported by music, art, and poetry from both Livery and Goodenough members, which will be displayed throughout the Main Hall, forming thought provoking, informal talking points while we network.

A full programme will support our celebrations as the City Liveries and Goodenough Members meld together to tell their stories through art and lively debate.

Programme for the evening:

17:30 – arrive to Mexican music – musicians from the Goodenough College, drinks and canapés

18:15 – Welcome from The Lady Mayoress, followed by a Fireside Chat with Dame Susan Langley, DBE (Alderman & Sheriff) who will talk about her own journey towards her role as Sheriff of the City of London, sharing some of her experiences and thoughts on 'invisible women'.

19:00 – Joint panel discussion, Goodenough and Livery members, linked into audience participation as we look deeper into the topic and find some solutions.

20:00 – Drinks, canapés, and networking after the event with a musical accompaniment from Goodenough Members Cellist and Violinist.

21:30 – Finish & Carriages
